

2010 IAFCS ANNUAL MEETING

IAFCS Annual Meeting April 24, 2010 (note change of date)

Save Saturday, April 24 to network and learn in new ways at the IAFCS spring meeting!

We are in a time when many of the families we work with and the communities in which we live are experiencing a diminished quality of living and difficult decisions are required. As noted in Journal of Family and Consumer Sciences, Summer, 2009:

“Health and financial literacy are the basis for wise personal and public decision making. Family and consumer sciences professionals can forge connections between health and financial literacy to increase the likelihood that individuals, families, communities, and the nation will strengthen their health and financial well-being.”

Come on April 24 and experience a day focused on engaging the important research, information and experience of FCS professionals in understanding the contribution that we make to health and financial literacy and begin to forge connections to improve the quality of living in our communities.

The meeting will headquarter at the historic Hotel Pattee in Perry, Iowa and will include a continental breakfast, luncheon, and our annual meeting. Come on Friday or stay over Saturday (a block of rooms will be available) to enjoy this beautiful facility and the interesting and diverse community of Perry.

Rooms are reserved for the conference at the Hotel Pattee for $109.00 a night until April 1, 2010. Specify if you want two beds or a single bed. Continue to check our website, www.iowafcs.org for further information. Registration and session details will be available soon on the website.
